A ROUND OF TALK.

How About It?

If you a Coal Oil Trust controlled—
Had everything your way.
And you could make a million cold.
By raising prices, say.
Upon each cake one cent or two.
Which is not much, I wot.
Speak up and say what you would do—
Would you or would you not?
If all the beef went through your hands.
That fed our mighty States.
And likewise, fates in foreign lands.
And almighty raising rates.
Would thousands daily bring to you.
As toll from every pot.
Speak up and say what you would do—
Would you or would you not?

AD PRACTICE.—We notice that the Fiscal Court of Fayette County is to take action against property owners along the turnpikes of the county who insist on moving their fences out so as to take in part of the public road. This is a matter to which the News-Leader called attention some time ago as being practiced in this county. It is a strange tendency that even some good honest citizens seem to possess, that of reaching out and appropriating something which does not belong to them. Of course these same good citizens would no more think of setting a division fence over so as to take in part of a neighbor's farm than they would of taking a neighbor's horse, but the road-Well that is the county's property and it doesn't make any difference. So they think but it does. As a result of this fence moving the road-ways in some places in the county are very much narrowed. There has been a large number of fences rebuilt along the turnpikes of the county within the past few years and we will venture the assertion that there is no case on record where the line has been moved in, instead of out on the public road. It would be perhaps a little severe for the county authorities to force any of these people to move their fences, but something should be done to prevent the practice being carried on any further. The new road overseer might be instructed to keep an eye out to prevent any more of the public highway from being fenced.

TELEPHONES.—The sale of the telephone franchise which was advertised to take place on last Saturday was postponed one week in order to have a republication of the ordinance or agreement between the city of Springfield and the Telephone Co., which has been amended. By a misunderstanding the telephone company was made to agree to extend its lines to Kirkland and to Hincio by December 31, while the managers of the company say that it will be impossible for them to do so and that clause should not have been in the agreement. The point is an important item but it is the desire of both parties to have everything correct so as to give no grounds for any trouble in the future. The telephone people are in earnest about the work of extending their lines and the people of the county are also quite anxious that they be given the service. As soon as the technical preliminaries can be arranged and the right of way over the county roads can be secured from the Fiscal Court, the telephone company it is understood will put a large force of men at work establishing the new lines and establishing the new exchanges, and before the new year is out Washington county will have a telephone service second to none in the State.

AD NEWS.—County Judge Littery has received a communication from the Chairman of the State Board of Equalization at Frankfort which contains bad news to the taxpayers of the county. It is a notification to the effect that the assessed valuation of lands and personal property has been raised 20 per cent. This increase is a heavy one and the action of the State Board is quite unexpected although it is known that farm property in advanced prices for the past few years. This is the first time the State Board has given the tax payers of the county for several years past. The increase in the valuation will be hard on some of the tax payers in as much as it applies to all. The man who was endeavoring to put a good fair valuation on his property and listed it at say 70 per cent. of what he would sell it for will be raised along with the fellow who put his in at only 50 per cent. of its real value. The matter will be a serious one to many if it stands. The State Board has set June 9th as a day on which to hear protests from the county and arrangements will likely be made to send representatives to appear before that body and endeavor to have the decision of the Board modified, but it will probably take very strong arguments to change the thing.

Croup is quickly relieved and whooping cough will not "run its course" if you use the original Bee's Laxative Honey and Tar. This Cough Syrup is different from all others because it acts on the bowels. You can not cure croup and whooping cough until you get the system of cold congestion, by working off the cold through a copious action of the bowels. Bee's Laxative Honey and Tar does this, and cures all coughs, croup, whooping cough etc. No opiates. Sold by Haydon's Pharmacy.

A Creeping Death

Blood poison creeps up towards the heart, causing death. J. E. Stearns, Belle Plaine, Minn., writes that a friend dreadfully injured his hand, which swelled up like blood poisoning. Bucklen's Arnica Salve did the work. He saved his life. Best in the world for burns and sores. 25c at C. J. Haydon's drug store.

An Amazing Incident.

A short time ago some men were engaged in the Southern part of this county in putting up some telephone poles across the land of a well known farmer. The farmer disliked seeing his wheat trampled down and went after the men who were putting up the poles. The men produced a paper by which they said they had the right to put the poles where they pleased. The farmer did not understand that, but he thought he would get even with them so he turned a large bull in the field. The savage beast made after the telephone men and the farmer seeing them running for dear life shouted at the top of his voice, "Show him the paper, show him the paper!"

Killed in Illinois.

Henry Shewmaker a Washington County Man Killed by Fred Britton at Lovington Ill.

News was received by relatives here the first of the week that Henry Shewmaker of the Mackville neighborhood, this county, and who was brought into notariety about five years ago by killing his cousin Henry Shewmaker a son of Butler Shewmaker, in a difficulty the two young men had in a store at Mackville, was killed at Lovington Illinois.

The particulars of the killing of young Shewmaker in Illinois were not given in the message received by his father, Uriah Shewmaker beyond the fact that he was killed in a difficulty with Fred Britton on last Saturday and was buried Sunday. Britton is a Mercer county man who went to Illinois several years ago.

Henry Shewmaker had been in Illinois about eighteen months. The killing in which he took part and in which his cousin, a young man of the same name, lost his life, is still fresh in the minds of the people of the county. The two young men engaged in a quarrel in a store at Mackville and Henry Shewmaker struck a scale weight striking his opponent in the head inflicting a fatal wound. The slayer made good his escape and was not captured for several months afterward when he was arrested in Illinois where he was at work for a farmer. He was brought back here and stood trial and was sentenced to the penitentiary. He had served less than two years of the term, however when he was released on parole and shortly afterwards left for Illinois.

That Electric Road.

Mr. W. K. Abell, promoter of the proposed road from the Cumberland river via Lebanon and Perryville to some point intersecting the Q & C and Southern railroads, and Mr. R. N. Wathen, of Lebanon, one of the directors of the new road, were in the city Wednesday evening in consultation with a number of leading business men at the Gilcher.

Mr. Abell read to those present the report of Mr. Green, of the Osborne Engineering Co., of Cleveland, who recently went over the line making a preliminary survey with a view to determining whether the proposed line would pay.

That portion of the report which was read to the Danville business men was very encouraging, and it looks now, if the road is built at all, that it will come to Danville.

The possibilities of the line as pointed out by the engineer, are most encouraging, as the country through which it is proposed the line shall be built from Lebanon to the Cumberland river is the widest strip in the United States, without a paying territory. Section of country near the Cumberland river has thousands of acres of undeveloped coal and timber lands, and the engineer figures that it would require forty years to move the timber alone, should the road have nothing else to do. The right of way to Lebanon has already been secured, and the committee will within a short time get to work to secure the right of way from Lebanon to Perryville. Should the road decide to come to Danville, it is earnestly hoped Boyle county farmers will encourage it all they can.

As soon as the rights of way and some other preliminary work has been done, Mr. Abell will take the matter up with capitalists whom he expects to build the new line. There is little doubt, however, that if the line is built Danville and Boyle county will have to attend to getting the rights of way. Harrodsburg wants the road, and wants it badly, and while we believe there is a leaning by the company in favor of this city, it will doubtless be the "longest pole that knocks the persimmon," and it behooves our citizens not to let Harrodsburg and Burgin get ahead of them. Messrs. Abell and Wathen went to Harrodsburg to confer with the citizens there yesterday.—Danville Advocate.

ATTEMPT

Made by John Will Moore to Murder His Wife at Campbellsville.

John Will Moore, who for some time past made his home in this city, last Saturday afternoon attempted to kill his wife, Mrs. Lillie A. Moore, and her two children, at Campbellsville. The affair occurred at the home of Mr. Henry Denny in Campbellsville, with whom Mr. and Mrs. Moore were spending the day. Moore's attack upon his wife was frustrated by Mr. Denny who was in an adjoining room and heard her screams in time to run to her assistance. She received a slight cut in the face and one across her hand but they are not a serious nature.

Shortly after Mrs. Moore was taken from the room Moore picked up a heavy water pitcher nearby and struck himself over the head. The pitcher was shattered, but he was not hurt sufficiently to prevent officers from arresting him and placing him in jail, where he now is in default of bail.

Moore has several times threatened the life of different ones of his family and not long ago he became so abusive his wife left him. Last Friday afternoon he went to the home of Robert Brenna, with whom Mrs. Moore was staying, and called her to the fence. When within some twenty or thirty feet of where he was standing she asked what he wanted. He asked that she come closer but she refused to go any further. He then drew a knife in his hand. Upon her promise to again live with him, and to leave that evening for Campbellsville, the weapon was not used.

They left on the train that evening for Campbellsville and stopped with the family of Mr. Denny. Saturday at noon Moore came to the Denny home, apparently under the influence of liquor, and going to a room went to bed. About two o'clock he called to his wife and when he stated that he wished to talk to her of their children she went into the room. Instead of talking to her children he immediately began to abuse her, and accused her of being the cause of their trouble in the past. She told him that she was not responsible and that he himself had caused it.

With an oath he told her she lied and grabbing a knife attempted to cut her throat, and would have very probably succeeded had it not been for the prompt arrival of Mr. Denny who was in an adjoining room.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore have eight children, three of whom are married and live in this city. The youngest child is but two years old.—Lebanon Enterprise.

A WAR STORY.

An Amazing Incident Which Occurred at the Battle of Lookout Mountain.

Willisburg, Ky., May 22.
Editor NEWS-LEADER.—I will tell a true story which happened during the war to one of my company boys that some of my comrades may remember. He was a good boy but like some others he was a coward and I have put off telling it while he labored in the flesh. As I have said, he was a good boy but when the music bells began to whistle it so unnerved him that it was hard for him to stay in ranks. So while we were penned up at Chattanooga on short rations Ben, as I will call him, knew that such conditions could not last long and it was a difficult problem to solve how we were to get out of our predicament. With Lookout Mountain on the South and Mission Ridge on the East and the river behind us we were actually in a pen. Ben was general enough to know that something had to be done, so Ben got suddenly sick. He would lie in his tent all day and grunt and groan refusing to eat but hunger forced him out at night to get something to eat and this seemed to agree with him and he got fat as a porker, and the orderly Sergeant took to putting him on duty and soon after came the ever memorable battle of Lookout Mountain and Mission Ridge. With Joe Hooker on our right to scale the heights of Lookout Mountain and Sherman on the left up the river at the base of Mission Ridge leaving us the center to bring up.

At last it came our time to climb the mountain. Ben was still with us looking the picture of health. We started up the mountain grandly, Col. W. H. Hays on first with us, holding to bushes in order to make some headway, but Ben was looking out for Ben's interests. As there was but little order in the ascent this gave Ben a chance to slip out. In aiming to take over behind a root-wadder tree he fell in on two Confederate soldiers who were hidden in this hole. It is hard to tell which was worst scared Ben or the Confederate soldiers, anyway there must have been a compromise for as we passed on up the mountain Ben and his prisoners went back to our camp which was only temporarily left while we victoriously slept on the mountain top. Ben was back at camp safely guarding his two prisoners. I believe the regiment did its full duty on that occasion but poor nervous Ben took more prisoners that day than the whole regiment.

Everyone who has catarrh, or even a tendency to catarrh, should use Hyomel now, for the benefit will be gained twice as quickly and the disease thoroughly eradicated from the system.

The complete Hyomel outfit costs but one dollar, and includes a nasal pocket inhaler, a medicine dropper, and sufficient Hyomel for several weeks' treatment. The inhaler lasts a lifetime, and if more Hyomel is needed, extra bottles can be obtained for 50 cents.

In Springfield there are scores of well known people who have been cured of catarrh by Hyomel. If it does not cure you The Red Cross Drug Store will return your money. This is the strongest evidence they can offer as to their faith in the remedy.

CURIOS OATHS.

Odd Ways of Swearing to the Truth of One's Statements.
When a Chinaman swears to tell the truth he takes an oath and a class swearer is given to him. The following oath is then administered: "You shall tell the truth and the whole truth. The swearer is cracked, and if you do not tell the truth your soul will be cracked like the swearer," when he breaks the swearer. Other symbolic variations of the Chinese oath are the extinguishing of a candle or cutting off of a cock's head, the light of the candle representing the witness' soul and the fate of the cock symbolizing the fate of a perjurer.

In certain parts of India, "tigers" and "horns" are taken the place of the swearer's soul. The swearer is then sworn to tell the truth by breaking the oath, is that as one case the witness will become the prey of a tiger and as the other the witness will be covered with scales like a lizard.

In Newgreen courts of law the preliminary oath proper is a solemn solemnity on the sanctity of the oath and the terrible consequences of not keeping it. When the witness is duly sworn by the solemnity of his faithful responsibility the oath is administered while he holds up his thumb and fore and middle fingers as an emblem of the trinity.

In an Italian court the witness, with his right hand resting on an open Bible, declares, "I will swear to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth." The witness is then sworn by the oath with his forehead reverently resting on the open Bible. He takes the Bible in his hand and swears, "as if in the presence of a higher power, slowly bows his head until it touches the book to him as he swears."

In certain parts of Spain the witness when taking an oath crosses the thumb and index finger and swears by the other, and, kissing this symbol, if primitive, cross, says, "By this cross I swear to tell the truth."

WILLS OF LUNATICS.

The Queer Bequests That Are Made by Insane Persons.
One of the manias which are produced by the insanity is a desire to make a will. Of course these documents are waste paper as far as their legal effect is concerned, but the insane and doctors treat these documents with the greatest respect in order to humor the delirious creature.

Some of these wills would be amusing if it were not for the fact and condition of mind which they are the outcome of. The grave of the testator once left all his money to the monks of Japan on condition that this dignitary should visit the grave of the testator once each year and plant chrysanthemums upon it. The remainder of the estate was to be handed over to an imaginary charity called the Incurable Love and Beauty Society.

Another lunatic in a Parisian asylum left a will devising the whole of his estate to the governors of Roman prison for this was that he had rather a handsome one of this shape and was constantly admiring it. A similar bequest was that of a patient who left his property to an attendant because he possessed one of the finest nasal organs the testator ever possessed and who was afflicted with the mania that he was, but confined in the asylum in consequence of his having his money to the consolation of his lunacy to enable them to stage a large staff of men for the purpose of having his money and accumulating it any were confined in them without reason.—New York Times.

The Bowling Green papers last week contained a long account of the presentation by the pupils of the Potter College, of the play "The Rivals" at the Opera House that place. In writing of the characters in the play the critic in one of the papers says:

"Bob Acres, the Rival made a splendid countryman in the charming little figure of Miss Margeinele Graham who showed decided talent for the stage in her mad cap desire to fight a duel." Miss Graham is a daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Graham, of this place, and finishes her course at Potter College this year.

Robert Irvine Cabell aged 21 years and a brother of Miss Bettie Irvine of this place died
last Saturday night at St.
Joseph's Infirmary, Louisville,
after an illness lasting about one year. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Leander M.
Wood of the Warren Memorial church, Louisville and were attended by the following brothers and sisters of the young man;
Misses Bettie Irvine of Springfield, and Sue Irvine of Lebanon who is a twin sister of the de-

Irvine of Knoxville and Lee Irvine of Macon, Ga. Another brother George of Macon was unable to be present. The deceased was a son of the late Mr.
Gabe Irvine of Lebanon, who was a brother of Mrs. A. C. Mc-Elroy of this place. Being left an orphan when quite young he was adopted and reared by John Cabell of Louisville and assumed the name of Cabell. He was a young man of fine character and good prospects in life. He graduated two years ago from the

THE MIRROR OF FATE

A VENETIAN LEGEND OF THE DAYS OF THE DOGES.

Story of the Beauty Who Was Interested in the Victims of Her Own Loveliness and the Statue in the Church of San Giorgio Maggiore.

Here is a legend which I heard in Venice, and it is to all Americans who are fond of solitude and silence. I offer it to you as I would offer a flower which has blossomed in a quiet corner of a sleeping lagoon.

Giulia Ghendrali was the niece of the Doge. Those names we have forgotten, but who were prominent at that time, had composed innumerable songs in her honor. They praised in them the beauty of the young girl, black as night, in which pearls gleamed like milk white stars. They also sang about the radiance of her dark violet eyes and the way she had led him to the ground, even when his men had been a retreat, it was a miracle he wasn't injured by the fall, and she was the first to face and fire on the advancing foe.

Just one of those instances of a man finding his native country in the presence of real danger?

"Not a bit of it. He was riding a horse, and he was not a soldier. The animal planted his feet and refused to budge."—YOUTH'S COMPANION.

Long Winded Oratory.

It is no new thing for the house of common to suffer from long winded oratory. As long ago as the thirteenth century Queen Bevis soundly rated her law-makers for not working more and talking less, and saying their things in plain language.

One of the most interesting of the long winded speeches was that of a certain knight, who was called "the long winded" because of his long speeches.

One day the knight was speaking of his long speeches, and he was saying that he was the longest of the long winded.

A Hero by Accident.

"There's no telling what moment a man's fortune may turn or why he may decide the turning," remarked the visitor, who had been listening to the interchange of views on the subject of the chance and the gift to make use of.

"That's so," agreed one of the bystanders. "The only question is whether or not the man is wise enough to see the chance and the gift to make use of."

"Well, even that isn't always easy," said one of the bystanders. "I know a man who was a 'white head' was promoted in his regiment and was promoted in all the eastern papers for his courage and coolness. He had been sent to meet an attacking party of the enemy. He didn't want to go a bit. He actually trembled when he confessed to me it was his first call in danger. He was so nervous he'd give anything on earth to be out of the affair. It was then twenty-four hours the station was rung with the way he had led him to the ground, even when his men had been a retreat, it was a miracle he wasn't injured by the fall, and she was the first to face and fire on the advancing foe."

Frank English Servants.

The English servants, whether they be better or not, are certainly fewer than American servants, and they are certainly more expensive.

One of the reasons for this is that the English servants are more expensive than the American servants.
